re, into the blue sky, as it sparkled down through ever nearing leaves, and, now breaking into a soft little warble of song, to which the very robins themselves put their heads to one side to listen.

The carriage had driven away long since sig had watched it beyond the curve of the winding road; the ldark mantle or sindow was inflowing the creeping suniglow across the velvet have helow, and lie clock in the old church spire among the far off wonds had chinded out eleven.

And still Mary Thorne sat there in those forked branches of the old pear tree.

Suddenly there dodned into her deafy sanctum a pungent, aromatic odor which made her lean currously forward, shalling

"He will upt at the depot," said Ruth;

"and—"
But Mr. Thorne had sprung from the carriage and classed bot 1 the stranger's

Mary Thorne: are you crazy? Come down this instant! 'said, the naughty Mary, tossing the silky shower of curls away from her torchead, and glancing. "Never sind now, so you are safely here!" exclaimed the old gentleman. "Ruth, my dear—Mar, let me introduce you to your cousir Frot. a Phice!" Mary had drop ed his arm and stood dismayer.

"You toold me the you were Consin From!"

You gold me the you were Consing from it is my name, and I believe I me at distant coustn by elationality. Now Mrv. and the bath eyes spankled "don't be a rery; because ... oo't take sauff or wear spectacles. I be a theorether Cousin Tom's pardon, whose a heis; but I am very glad he isn't here. Mary, be just, and don't hite Cousin Tom because his o'l er name suppens to be Last leech.

But no do but it was diverse perplexing thing to have two its isn'd o'lies, and so, about six mainths sades poertly. Oh, dear 'ejacul lated Mary. 'I wish I could run away, somewhere and hide. I indee the this paragon of prim precision. I I shan't marry him if he asks, and I mean to behave so badly that he won't dream of a. No. I am not going with you. I hate the close barouche, and it's too warn to ride on horseback. I shall stay at home."

And Mary spectfed herself so snugly, with one tiny shippead foot swinging down, and her pretty head close to a, hest of blue speckled bird's eggs, that /Roth gave it up, with a sigh of despair.

"Well, then, have it your own way, you incorrigible romp. I vish you weren'; too big to shut up in a dark closet, or have well boxed."

"It is a pity, find it?" said Mary demurely.
